I began with a blank Photoshop file and created the entire design myself, the large “1,000” heading to the subtext, composition, and stat placement to show Jordan Castor’s achievement in the 1,000-Point Club at Lincoln North Star High School. The main “1,000” text was created with the font Morganite Black, with the secondary text written in Chakra Petch Semibold.

The official career point totals were found by me and the help from the head coach and athletic director to make sure they’re right. The action photo of Jordan was given to me by a local photographer who gave me permission to use, and only slight edits were used so that it would fit well with the design. Glow effects, logos, and text were kept to a minimum to keep the design clean and modern.

No templates or external graphics were used. The goal was to provide a bold, readable, and interesting design for social media that would also celebrate an achievement.
