

THE WRITE STUFF

WRITING IN STYLE

Junior Audrey Sloan is a student who combines her interests with school. "G-2 pink pens, Snoopy notebook, Physics for the notebook, and pink pens for all my classes. I like color coding as it helps my brain process information. I like the aesthetic of certain things," Sloan said. Photo by Edher Luqueno-Galvan

THE BOOK IS MINE

Freshman Jocelyn Rodriguez enjoys reading and this year she found a series she likes. "[The title is] 'Silence,' I am on the third book from the Hush-Hush series and the book is basically about fallen angels and powers. Fallen angels have a chance to become human by sacrificing their vessel in this case which should be a human vessel," Rodriguez said. Photo by Edher Luqueno-Galvan

FINAL NOTES

The yearbook staff sent out a survey asking students which type of school supplies they had. Junior Skye Combs is a student who finds ways to strive while studying for class. "I use notebooks, mechanical pencils, and a pink calculator. I have a set notebooks for Physics, and English AP 11. It's useful to take notes," Combs said. Photo by Edher Luqueno-Galvan

BETWEEN THE LINES

Senior Mackenzie Smock is a student who uses her school supplies to stay organized. "I have one five-subject notebook that I use for all my classes, and two tri-fold folders: one for A day, one for B day, and I have a cheap Amazon Apple Pen knock off. My favorite is my Paper Mate Sharpwriter mechanical pencil. I use my notebook mainly for AP Gov and English. I use my pencil and notebook to write down notes and stay engaged in class, and help me retain information and do well when it comes to tests," Smock said. Photo by Edher Luqueno-Galvan
