

I used an actual sketchbook and colored pencils to create this editorial cartoon.

This drawing is of a couple at home who think their kids are safe at school but in reality the school is about to be invaded by a distraught former student.

This is to represent how schools are trying to be safe but there is always a way in

Brooklyn Robb

