

SHS David Sheldon Infographic

I started with a 7 inch x 7 inch Photoshop file. I drew a smaller, white square inside of it with a black outline. I used creative commons pictures for the images to go with the different guidelines for safe protesting from the Human Rights Campaign. After filling in all the information and adding a line between the two sections, I found a creative commons picture of a wooden stake and angled it on the canvas. After angling the stake, I grouped all of the design elements of the sign together and angled them with the same measurement as the steak and put them together to look like the complete sign that you would see at a protest.
