Looking back, how could anyone not see it? All the history made, memories formed, experiences collected – all the nostalgia. It's our real life that spills between these pages.

From the very start, students navigated new paths to allow for an ever-expanding Southside learning space. At the first pep rally, all four grade levels squeezed in to make room for the school's largest ever population of "Hey, Baby" swayers and "Do It" chanters.

When game time arrived, athletes went after all the gains while Black Hole seniors sported pinstripe overalls and rallied school spirit from costumed crowds. Football delivered its first ever Championship faceoff at Memorial Stadium, bringing home the runnerup trophy, and Volleyball spiked its way to a historic eighth State Champion title.

Going after all the applause, Play Production kicked off the theatrical year with "The Man Who Came to Dinner," and then the schoolwide musical cracked the case in "The Comedy Musical Whodunit Curtains." After that, Show Choir season revved up with a new Revolution debuting in treble and Marching Band's cowboy theme carrying over to a Platinum-Radiance hoedown.

In the everyday, students piled on all the ideas, and all the extras, with countless academic opportunities through Academies, Advanced Placement, electives and extracurriculars including new groups seeking to EmpowerHer and invite smart political discussion. Surely we've all realized it by now. Starting on Day One, Titans brought all the spirit.

We were after it all.

Suited up for spirit

For the first time in 22 years, the student section was led by seniors in pinstripe blue overalls. Senior cheer captain Hayden Allrich came up with the idea over the summer before school. She started the trend by a simple text to a few friend groups, and naturally the word spread. The motivation for this twist came from Allrich's freshman year.

"I just remember the game day atmosphere for the senior class of 2023. ... Everyone was united, the student section was always full, they had so much fun, and I was like: 'Wow, I can't wait to do that' -- but with a little twist," she said. "We want our senior class to be better than what we've seen in the past."

Not only did the seniors want to create something new for their class but they were making their mark on school tradition.

Black Hole leader Grayson Wallace explained: "Being a part of building it for everybody -- not just the senior class -- and coming together as a community, that'll be the biggest thing I remember."

The spirit responded Senior Black Hole leader Jackson Willer said, "Everyone's together. We are one class, one school, one big community."

Wallace added: "The overalls built a big blanket of support and really showed what we, the Black Hole, are."

With a historical season for football and another state championship for volleyball, Allrich said the Black Hole pushed athletes to their best ability.

"I think the Black Hole has honestly led the athletes to a lot of success," Allrich said.

Only time will tell if the stripes survive.

Time to start Uniting

Creating a powerful space

After seeing an online video about EmpowerHER, senior Madeline Larsen decided she wanted to share this initiative with our school. Originally a larger initiative to bring support to young women through schools, Larsen decided to use this idea and create a different version with an emphasis on leadership and the power a community can have when they work together.

"I knew I was in leadership academy and that I wouldn't have any leadership experience for senior year...So I created the club so that I can spread it to all grades," Larsen said.

A major part of the club is the weekly group activities. During which, club members can go in groups to events happening at the school. In this way, the group members could support not only each other, but the members who took part in the events too. Larsen explained why they chose to implement this.

"I wouldn't always have someone to go with... So kind of giving that support and community to make that not an excuse... and then we can go support these teams that kind of get less attention."

EmpowerHER has managed to not only become a substantial club, but has also kept its main values close to heart. Generating a connected community where everyone shows up for each other has built the foundations of this club, and after it all, a more connected community is something anybody could benefit from.

No One Stands Alone

Coming together to celebrate diversity, the Titans Unite Club is after a more connected community. President Max Kunkle, strives to create a safe space that is welcome to all.

If you could describe this club with five words, what would those words be?

"I'd say accepting, community, freeing, memorable, and advocate."

What would you say that this club provides for people?

"This club provides a safe place for those who really need it. I try to make it safe for everyone, not just queer youth. They get the chance to let down the mask and 'just be me!'"

A Friendly Face Spending quality time with friends, Max Kunkle 11th is focusing on connecting the Titans Unite Community.

After everything, what do you hope people would take away from this club?

"I want them to have a knowledge of what empowerment means to them or what this community means to them. I want them to understand the empowerment of this community, the beauty of this community."

"A lot of the people there are just good people." -Sage Barba 9th, Titans Unite

"Just being able to support other women in the school." -Brooklyn Prauner 11th, EmpowerHER

"It's Very Inclusive... And everyone is just pleasant to be around." -Sunday Shores 11th, Titans Unite

"The positivity is just so great, because it's just women uplifting other women." -Kaitlyn Nathan 12th, EmpowerHER

On Thin Ice After slipping on the ice that coated the steps to the Stanley household and allegedly dislocating his hip, the wealthy radioman Sheridan Whiteside, played by Gavin Turecek, 11th, forcefully assimilates himself into the residence and enforces control on the family. Whiteside brings along his two caretakers Dr. Bradley, played by Finley Albracht, 12th, and Miss Preen, played by Sophie Spence, 12th, who tend to his needs while he is nervously welcomed in by Mrs. Stanley, played by Brynn Russell, 12th. Getting Into it

How to Scan the Code:

Open Spotify, press the search button on the bottom, then press the camera icon on the top right corner and scan the code to the left.

How did you go about finding your character?

"I just really wanted to find the vibe of Maggie, and so I made a Spotify playlist and a Pinterest board. ...It was very fun just finding her likes, her interests, and her reasonings. A lot of it was just, 'what's her vibe? How does she stand? What is the way she walks and how does that translate to what kind of music she listens to and the way she dresses?'"

Paisley Bernth, 12th

Stabbed in the Back Upon learning about the ploy to steal away her love life, Maggie Cutler, played by Paisley Bernth, 12th, feels betrayed and snaps at Sheridan Whiteside, played by Gavin Turecek, 11th, telling him that she is quitting her job as his assistant.

Making Melodies

Beverly Carlton, played by Corbin Hale 11th, is an eccentric playwright and composer who is good friends with Maggie Cutler and Sheridan Whiteside. After stopping by to briefly wish the two a Merry Christmas, Beverly plays a song from his newest revue titled "What Am I To Do?"

This song was provided to Hale lacking an instrumental, and so he attached his own piano melody which he himself composed in early July.

"I've been interested in making music for a long time," Hale said. "The original intention for the melody was definitely not to be used in a show, but it came in handy."

After tweaking his creation to fit the given lyrics, the result was a performance that is sure to be remembered.

Money Talks Stage mom in disguise, Carmen Bernstein, played by Ava Winkler 12th, leads the cast in a song teaching Bambi Bernet, played by Sophie Spence 12th, Bernstein's motivation behind her participation in theater: it's a business. This was only for show, however, because the true reason Bernstein backed the shows was to push Bambi's career as an actress forward without making her seem like a nepo baby. (photo: Andrea Jaime)

How to act like a murderer:

(according to Finley Albracht)

- Act like a weirdo, but not like a murderer-weirdo
- Make sporadic movements
- Act like a slinky
- Imitate an animal (ideally a snake)

Devil In Disguise Journalist by day, murderer by night, Daryl Grady, played by Finley Albracht, sneaks in the theater to keep an eye on the investigation. (photo: Andrea Jaime)

Sanctuary Christopher Belling, played by Tripp Norwood 9th, shocks the cast by taking credit for the murders. (photo: Lucena Hanna)

What made Bambi's behavior suspicious?

"She just had to fight her mom so much, and even though she's not the nicest person, she's still so determined and hard-working and will do whatever it takes."

Sophie Spence, 12th

In The Spotlight Bambi, played by Sophie Spence 12th, performs a solo to prove her star potential. (photo: Andrea Jaime)

What would make someone think Aaron Fox did it?

"Anger issues. That's a trait I gave to my character because to be honest I really hated him. He's kind of a jerk 99 percent of the time, and so I was like 'you know what I'm gonna give him a reason for being a jerk.' And so I gave him anger issues because he quit smoking."

Corbin Hale, 11th

If Georgia Hendricks did it, what would her motives be?

"It would have been something for Aaron. It would have been so that this show would do well, and it would kick off successful careers for the both of them together."

Paisley Bernth, 12th

Hold in Harmony Aaron Fox, played by Corbin Hale 11th, and Georgia Hendricks, played by Paisley Bernth 12th, embrace during their duet. (photo: Lucena Hanna)
